

CAPT. BROGAN NOT ON TRIAL. THIRD AVENUE PAVERS QUIT.

Dive-Keeper Franchi Not Allowed Over 3,000 Men Affected by the Cable Road's Troubles.

But a Host of Friends Said His Place Was Orderly.

President Alex. Meakin is on his vacation at Deer Park, N. J., and Commissioner Pittman was here, as well as both these things did not seem to interfere with the hearing on the motion of Mr. Meakin that the Board of Excise revoke the license of Louis Franchi.

Franchi is the keeper of the dive at Bleeker street and South Fifth avenue, where "The" Allen was stabbed in a bawdy, by Jim Caruso, "the Jay," last month.

President Meakin's motion was made on newspaper information as to the very bad character of Franchi's place.

A prize-fight is said to have taken place within its sacred precincts recently, and the stories of the untoward performances of dissolute women, white and black, and the thieves, thugs and other notorious characters that make it their rendezvous, were only a prelude to the furious fight in which "the Jay" nearly killed "The" Allen with an axe.

The hearing began last week, but was adjourned until to-day because of the absence of Commissioner Meakin. But Mr. Meakin went away on his vacation, and the hearing on the motion of Capt. Brogan and the several officers who testified to the bad character of Franchi's place, was adjourned again to-morrow morning.

And the hearing began at 11:15 o'clock before an audience that not only filled the chamber, but overflowed into the anteroom.

Franchi, clad in a suit of blue-silk and an outing shirt, sat beside his lawyer, G. E. Le Barber and without delay in an earnest way he denied all the charges.

Mr. Le Barber began with a motion for a dismissal of the charges.

This was denied, and then the lawyer said he would call Capt. Brogan for cross-examination.

The first question asked was:

"Does your son know Otto Zeppelin's place?"

This was ruled out, too, and then they knew of Otto Zeppelin's name.

Capt. Brogan reddened and objected. The question was ruled out and then the lawyer asked:
